WANIS CLUB'S LADIES' NIGHT

Five Have a Nearly Perfect Evening At Golden Rule Inn—Dancers' Had a Good Time, Too.

The Wanis Club members, their friends and to the number of thirty-five enjoyed the club's monthly ladies' night at the Golden Rule Inn, Thursday evening. The evening proved an agreeable surprise, most of those present never venturing the few hundred feet of the state road just this side of Ulster Park where Proprietor W. H. W. has created one of the neatest and most beautiful resorts near Kingston. The location is a beautiful one, with a gentle slope to the water of the Esopus Lake, or Mirror Lake, as it is sometimes called. The air is cool and refreshing, and the view is a beautiful one. The club has a fine dancing casino, a shelter, and boat dock. Every-thing presents a spick and span appearance.

The chicken dinner served the wanians was all that could be desired, from soup to waffles and syrup. The fact that 25 or so came who were not expected did not interfere with the excellent service. Following the dinner there was a musical program, the artists being Helen Stern Mann, who has been a favorite with the club since its organization, Miss Linker and George Lowe. Miss Linker, Mrs. Mann and Mr. Lowe sang to the accompaniment of Mrs. Linker and Miss Messinger. They played two piano numbers, and were generously applauded. The women's attendance prize was won by Mrs. Charles Lasher and that for men by William Freeman, a member of the Pittsburgh, Pa., Kiwanis club, who came as a guest of Dr. Nicoll.

On the grass under the trees, between the inn and the lake, Sam Slaughter put some of the party through a program of summary tennis that saw Sam Stern win a match from Dr. B. W. Gifford. Mrs. Robert J. Service take the prize in the potato race from Mrs. Linker and a girl who was young enough to win from both. George Lowe demonstrated that he is an all-around athlete by winning a watermelon eating contest from Big Field. Judge Fowler had been set to win a boat race when illness curtailed the stunt program, to the great disappointment of a mosquito convention which was holding forth in the same place. Big Field's straw hats furnished by an Messenger kept these "flies in the ointment" off the bald-headed men but there's a crying necessity for a mosquito-proof silk stocking. Dancing was then enjoyed in the casino with excellent music by the orchestra and Sam Slaughter tried to get an audience to listen to the radio news from the big inn in New York, but the dance was predominated and, aside from a few screech, which was explained as being Willard taking a deep breath, the orchestra was compelled to drown out the radio set.

They Were Insurgent Unionists Who Had Refused To Call General Strike In Pittston District.

Pittston, Pa., July 12.—Four homes in this city, one of them that of Alex Campbell, leader of the insurgent element of the United Mine Workers of America in the Pittston district, were dynamited within a period of fifteen minutes, starting at 2 o'clock this morning. DR. NICOLL NEW HEALTH COMM'R

Albany Man, Deputy Under Late Dr. Biggs, Is Named As His Successor—Has Had Long Experience.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, July 13.—Governor Smith has announced the appointment of Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., of Albany, as state commissioner of health to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, who had held the position since 1914. Dr. Nicoll has been connected with the State Department of Health since 1915, and for the past four years has served as deputy commissioner. Previously he was secretary of the department and director of public health education. Before coming to Albany he had long been associated with Dr. Biggs and Dr. William H. Park in public health and laboratory work in the New York city department of health.

Dr. Nicoll was born in New York city in 1868 and is a graduate of Williams College, Class of 1889. He received his medical education at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, and specializing in pediatrics and children's diseases, was for many years attending physician at the New York Foundling Hospital, the New York Infant Asylum, Seton Hospital, Willard Parker Hospital and Bellevue Hospital. Later he served for six years as assistant director and chief of the division of diagnosis in the laboratories of the New York city department of health. In 1914-15 in collaboration with Dr. William H. Park, director of the Research Laboratory of the New York city department of health, Dr. Nicoll demonstrated by a series of experiments on guinea pigs that the value of tetanus antitoxin in the treatment of lockjaw was greatly enhanced when injected directly into the spine. Subsequently in a series of lockjaw cases occurring in and about New York city the value of this method was fully proven, a very much greater percentage of cases recovering than had formerly been the case when the antitoxin was used in the tissues and veins. Since then the intraspinal use of tetanus antitoxin in the treatment of lockjaw has been generally accepted as giving the greatest chance of recovery.

Dr. Nicoll is a trustee of the state hospital for tuberculosis at Raybrook, a fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine and of the American Public Health Association, and a member of the executive committee of the State and Provincial Health Authorities. He is the author of many scientific articles on infectious diseases, laboratory research and public health administration.

HARDING FINDS ALASKANS DIVIDED

Lumbermen And Fishermen Want Free Access To Natural Resources While Others Want To Prevent Exploitation—Capital Chief Needs.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Abroad U. S. S. Henderson with President Harding in Alaska, July 13.—President Harding is not finding any ready made solution for Alaska's numerous problems.

The president came to the northern territory hopeful of finding unified sentiment of Alaskans themselves, as to what was wanted in the ways of remedial legislative and administrative relief but the week spent in cruising through Southern Alaska where the chief industry is located, has failed utterly to reveal any such unity.

The various interests which make up industrial and business Alaska principally fisheries and lumbering are conflicting in their wants in almost as great a degree as there is difference of opinion in Washington concerning the theory of the situation. Generally speaking, these interests want lesser restrictions in their operations but opposed to them as a considerable body of Alaska public sentiment not in favor of giving business too free a hand in exploiting Alaska's unutilized resources.

Apparently the only thing on which there is unanimity of sentiment is that Alaska needs developing of industry and capital should be attracted.

President Harding's first week in Alaska put him in every town of any importance south of Seward and he has seen and conversed with scores of persons interested in informing him about "what's wrong with Alaska." The first week has not resulted in the formulation of any definite policies and the president has carefully refrained from promising anything specific. He has consistently emphasized in public speeches and in private conversations that he came 5,000 miles from Washington to study, listen and observe and not talk or promise.

Having visited all of the principal parts of the southern seaboard including the capital city, President Harding starts today for the interior where he will spend a week. The presidential party arrives at Seward this afternoon, immediately boarding a special train on the government railroad for the two day trip to Fairbanks, the terminal point.

President Harding has decided to keep the transport Henderson for his return trip through the canal zone, aims to make New York August 27. The president decided today to stop at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, enroute from the canal zone. This will make four of Uncle Sam's possessions he will visit.

BRITAIN WRITING REPLY TO GERMANS

U. S. To Be Among Those Who Will Receive Copy—Lloyd George Thinks Baldwin's Course Too Mild.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. London, July 13.—General approval but a noticeable lack of enthusiasm marks the reaction today to Premier Stanley Baldwin's statement of the British reparations policy.

Approval comes from the fact England has at last made a move. The lack of enthusiasm is due to the uncertainty as to the move constitutes.

Dissatisfaction is expressed in two quarters. Lord Rothermere's papers express displeasure that the premier did not castigate Germany. The liberal press is displeased because it sees in the statement only the continued dragging out of negotiations with France.

Foreign office experts, it is learned, have already partially completed the text of the British note to Germany that will be submitted to the allied nations for approval. It is not expected to be ready for transmission to the other powers, however, before Tuesday or Wednesday.

The note probably will accept in principle the German suggestion for a commission to inquire into Germany's economic condition and determine her capacity to pay.

The note also suggests a revision of the guarantees submitted by Germany in her last reparations note and will suggest an end of passive resistance.

This will make it possible for France to join the negotiations without loss of dignity as Premier Poincare has repeatedly said he would not discuss reparations with Germany until passive resistance in Ruhr was abandoned.

Thus the negotiations will result quickly, if France joins with England, in the lifting of the restrictions in the occupied area and remove cause of chaos in Germany which Premier Baldwin complained in his statement.

The United States undoubtedly will receive a "courtesy" British note. The London press is predicting American participation, at least unofficially, in the discussions. The Daily Mail says Thomas Lamont, American financier, who is now in London, is likely to be the United States representative on any commission.

The labor element in parliament approves the Baldwin statement and considers the move one that will make progress in the reparations settlement.

Former Premier Lloyd George is understood to disapprove of the government's statement, believing it does not represent drastic enough action and will not carry matters forward speedily.

The London Chronicle intimates that Baldwin knows France will delay a decisive answer to the British proposal, carrying matters along until the House of Commons adjourns.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BILLIE BROWNIE'S NEWS

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "here I am back again after quite a day's trip."

"We do want to hear all your news," said the little people of Fairyland and Billie Brownie gave him a big hug which sent them both sprawling on the mossy ground.

"Early this morning I saw a little girl sitting high up in an apple tree. Some one had made a nest and she was sitting in it for her in the tree and she was half lying down and half sitting up on these boards spread over a part of the apple tree.

"She was also eating some of the apples from the tree and it seemed pretty fine I thought to be able to perch one's self so comfortably in an apple tree upon which were fine apples. She had other boards which led up above her reading corner and I heard her say, 'Now I think I'll go upstairs and sit for a little while.'

"So then I knew that she called part of the tree the upstairs part and that she played house in the tree. Oh, it was just as cozy as it could be and it did look the most wonderful sort of a place in which to play.

"From the apple tree to the pear tree, just a little beyond, a hammock swung and when I was passing by that way later I saw the little girl swinging in the hammock. Then on another tree, a big pine tree, there was a fine trapeze and there were swings and I knew that the little girl could do all sorts of fine tricks.

"From there I went to have a chat with a white cat I'd meant to call upon for some time and the cat told me that above all things in the world he liked his comfort best. Yes, he said he would rather be comfortable than anything else. He said he cared for his mistress but not so much as he did for his comfort. He told me that he knew he was handsome and admired by all and so he always accepted all attention and acted as though it merely was his right.

"Next I went and called on a little Weikene dog. He would not speak to me for he was busy yelping and yapping and barking for the luncheon the people were eating before they had a chance to eat a bite themselves. His shrill little voice yapped without stopping and he tried to get his food at once. He did, too. Oh, yes, he was given some food right away and he said to me, 'If a big dog did that no one would have any use for him but I can be as disagreeable as I want to be and they stand for it and pamper me. Yet I am not the devoted creature another dog might be. I'm all right, but I'm not really devoted.'

"From there I went to call on Willie Woodthrush and what a lovely time I did have there!

"Willie sang for me his lovely bell-like, clear, glorious song. He looked so handsome in his brown suit and reddish brown cap and his light colored vest dotted with black so as to make him look very smart.

"He is a good sized thrush, too. Willie told me how they warned each other when strangers came near the nest and grass nest home when the green-blue eggs were within the nest.

"Willie said that the wood thrushes are very fond of bathtubs which are fixed for them by people. Oh, yes, he said, they were very grateful for such cool and restful hospitality. And then he sang again for me, his song of the woods and the streams.

"I don't think anyone can sing quite as Willie does, and he told me, too, that he and other members of his family were singing for rain and that sometimes people called him a rain bird because he called for rain.

"And then I saw a Beetle pair. Mr. Beetle was helping Mrs. Beetle by going forth and attending to all sorts of business matters, coming back again to help her with the household tasks.

"Mrs. Beetle said that Mr. Beetle helped provide most beautifully and that they both worked together ever so well. She said Mr. Beetle had no thoughts save for her and the young Beetle children. And after that I started for home, and here I am," ended Billie Brownie.

"Well," said the others, "we think you saw a good many in one day. And we always love to hear about the tells you make."

SALAD DAYS

A good salad with bread and butter

And a cup of hot tea, cocoa, milk or coffee make a satisfying

luncheon for an average appetite. The following are sufficiently nourishing to satisfy a hungry

man:

Luncheon Salad.—

Take two cupsful of roast pork cut fine in dice, one-half of a green pepper, also finely

minced, two stalks of celery finely cut, one cupful of finely minced pineapple—the fresh is best.

Mix well and marinate with one-half cupful of French dressing and allow to stand for an hour or two, then serve on lettuce with a plain boiled dressing, as a mayonnaise is too rich with pork.

Salmon Salad.—Take one can of salmon, drain well, shred and mix with one cupful of finely shredded, crisp, tender cabbage; add one-half cupful of grated coconut; if the delicated coconut is used soak it in milk

for an hour to remove the sugar, then add to the salmon. Mix with enough highly seasoned salad dressing of the boiled variety to moisten. Serve on crisp leaves of lettuce or in head-lettuce cups.

Prunes and Cheese.—Take one-half pound of large prunes, soak and cook until tender, remove the pits and fill with cream cheese, dip in a highly seasoned French dressing, roll in chopped pecan meats and serve with a ripe olive ring on each. Slice the olives and use the center slices for garnish-

ing. Arrange on lettuce hearts and pipe roses of mayonnaise on the salad.

Stuffed Celery.—Fill the hollows of the short stalks with cream cheese, chopped nuts and a bit of mayonnaise to moisten. If the stalks are filled carefully they may be eaten from the fingers as one does plain celery.

Fruit Sandwiches.—Finely chop a mixture of candied cherries, pineapple, figs and plums. Moisten with lemon juice and spread on very thin slices of buttered bread; cover with another buttered slice.

People and Politicians.

The difference between the people and the politicians is that the politicians know what they want.

We Have No Candidate

Our business isn't politics but that of selling Clothing for Men and Boys. Also Shoes in latest styles for Men, Women and Children. Yes, Yes, We Sell Them and our goods give satisfaction.

"Did your mother ever whip you?"

Many interviewers have asked Henry Ford many questions, but probably no one ever asked him that question before Yet he met it with frank good humor.

Did your mother ever bring you to our store and buy for you a SUIT OF CLOTHES? If she has not done so, just request her to do it.

Many mothers are regular traders at this store who bring their husband and big and little sons.

This store has grown from a small shop to quite a big one, because our motto has been, and is, satisfaction above all. Mothers know this.

We carry a line of House Dresses for Ladies.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 13, 1923.

LET US HOPE SO.

Chairman Lasker, retiring head of the Shipping Board, says that during the next session Congress will pass an amendment to the Volstead act permitting foreign ships to bring liquors into American ports under seal. It may be that Congress will do so—if the Anti-Saloon League will allow it; for there are many signs of uneasiness and embarrassment among the officials at Washington, from the head of the administration on down. These signs have been the more noticeable since Lord Curzon made his speech in the House of Lords, plainly addressed to the American government and public. Speaking of our State Department's extraordinary offer to grant immunity in port for sealed stores of liquor on foreign ships in return for the extension of the search limit from three to twelve miles—an offer that was promptly declined—Lord Curzon described the proposal as "a very difficult and delicate matter, raising grave issues of the international law and of policy."

Of the present treatment of British ships in our territorial waters he said that "the American government are acting within their rights, but there are other considerations of scarcely inferior validity and importance." On many matters, he said, "the practice has grown that a State shall not exact strict compliance with its own law from ships in its territorial waters," and though "that is international practice rather than international law," the practice and the courtesy that should mark international relations make the custom "of scarcely inferior validity" to actual statute. No doubt all Americans except "dry" extremists deplore the present situation and are hoping that the Anti-Saloon League will permit Congress to find "an exit from the situation" which, as Lord Curzon pointedly said, "is disagreeable and ought not to be allowed to continue."

THE NEW "TRUTH EXTRACTOR."

Scopolamin, a drug that has been favored by some physicians and strongly objected to by others as a means of deadening pain in childbirth, was recently employed by Dr. R. E. House as "a harmless third degree" or a means of "truth extraction" in an experiment on criminals in the San Quentin, Cal., penitentiary. According to report, this interesting experiment was completely successful in drawing from three convicts confessions of what they had done, exonerating one, convicting another of murder, and revealing the hidden identity of a third. It seems that the effect of scopolamin upon the brain is not to stupefy but to loosen restraint, to bring about a forgetfulness of caution, and to beget a disposition to tell the simple truth without regard to consequences. In other words, it reveals the real man through his involuntary and unguarded speech.

More than two thousand years ago the ancients recognized the existence of another fluid "truth extractor," of which a party of rather serious-minded thoughtful Americans were recently reminded. The story goes that these were quietly enjoying the cup that cheers but is now forbidden, when one of them, after snarling his lips, remarked: "Whenever I get a good drink, instead of meditating murder according to the prohibitionists' theory, I begin to thank the Lord for all His mercies." Another smilingly quoted: "In vino veritas"—in wine is truth. The Latins invented that saying because they observed that alcoholic stimulants tended to loosen restraint and set a man free to be himself. If you were evil at heart, that drink might cause you to meditate murder, but, as you are a good citizen, it merely reveals what is really in you."

But scopolamin seems to accomplish the purpose even more completely than alcohol, and, though there may be good reason to employ it as "a harmless third degree" or "truth extractor" on criminals from whom confessions are desired, it is obviously a thing that the average citizen should shun like the plague. While alcohol might cause him merely to boast that he had "plenty of money and no poor kin," scopolamin might cause him to say things out loud that would set a whole neighborhood by the ears. Let scopolamin be rigidly restricted to criminals. The whole truth will not do in diplomacy, in society, or even among intimate friends. We must remain mindful of the necessity of a guarded reserve, and keep the lid down on our critical reflections, or else civilization as we have it will go to smash. Only the angels are or can be completely frank because only the angels have thoughts that can be published in toto without discredit to themselves or injury to others.

 3. Can snakes go for months without feeding?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Do bumble bees make wax? Yes, a little, but not extensive wax combs as honey bees do. The bumblebee takes an abandoned mouse-nest already filled with dried shredded grasses and rearranges them in a little heap. She then digs a tube into the middle of the pile, enlarging it to an oval burrow at the end of the passage, and in the chamber makes a cell to hold the first brood of eggs, also a wax container for a little honey to feed the grubs. This work is duplicated as the mother-bee provides for successive broods during the season, but systematic wax comb is not built.

2. What makes the sealing-wax tip on cedar birds' wings? The "wax" tip is a pigmented or colored horny outgrowth from the shaft of the feathers, and of the same general composition as the shaft. We don't know what "makes" certain feathers of this particular bird develop this odd character. The Curlew, the toucan of the Amazons and a cuckoo of the Philippines as well as the Bohemian waxwing of Europe have similar ornaments.

3. Why do badgers have such big claws? Apparently as tools to reach their food. Badgers feed on various small rodents like prairie dogs, which live in underground burrows, and have to be dug out by the hungry badger.

ROAD WILL BE OPEN NEXT WEEK

Hobart to South Kortright Now a Splendid Highway With Banked Curves and Bluestone Top—All Bridges 24 Feet Wide.

In less than a week, weather permitting, the new Hobart-Bloomville road, now under construction by Hogeboom & Campfield, Kingston contractors, will be opened to the traveling public from Hobart to South Kortright. A short stretch of top, midway between South Kortright and Hobart, is rapidly being put in and when completed traffic will be permitted on this fine piece of highway.

A Mirror-Recorder representative, who was taken over the road last week, learned that about six days of crushing would complete the road to Bettas brook, leaving about 4 miles of road yet uncompleted. Contractor Williams of Delhi is working on the last town bridge on the road. Every one of them is 24 feet wide, and the Bettas brook structure is in the ninth that Contractor Williams has put in. The form for the western abutment for this bridge was in place last week, ready for concrete, and excavation in the creek bed for the other abutment had already been made. The Bettas brook bridge will be a 40-foot span.

Foreman Beaver has finished the fine grading as far as the Delbert Cess farm, and the culverts, which come under the jurisdiction of Foreman John Shackleton of Hobart, are all in except one. Sub-base and fill is completed to the Sackrider farm. In a few days the crusher will be moved from the Clark Simmons farm a point nearer Bloomville, possibly the Cess or Peterson farm.

The steam shovel gang under Foreman Ernest Sutton, are now at work in the big cut in front of the Bloomville creamery. This is one of the toughest propositions. Foreman Sutton has had to contend with on the present contract. The cut extends from the creamery to the railroad crossing and approximately 500 yards of dirt will have to be removed. The shovel gang anticipate some hard digging before they level up with the crossing.

Regular travelers over the Hobart-Bloomville road in pre-construction days will recollect the "Hogsback" road on the Sackrider farm—an extremely narrow stretch of highway, where wagons passed with difficulty. This "cut" has been widened full sixteen feet as is the rest of the road and the turns here, as well as every turn on the contract, thus far completed, is widened out to twenty feet. Another feature of these turns is the fact that each one is banked, a most excellent condition, and a car going at moderate speed round the curve, lending a feeling of security that is most gratifying. All sub-base stone on this contract, like the East Windham Mountain road and all the late contracts, are hand placed, that is, they are placed on edge, which makes a better wearing road and is less subject to heaving by frost. In the Simmons quarry the contractors found an excellent quality of bluestone which is used as top for the road.

Those farmers who are located along the road, and who are permitted to travel over it, are pleased with the uniform smoothness. Foreman Riley, the top boss, is an experienced man and like Foreman Sutton and Beaver has been with Hogeboom & Campfield for a long time. Samuel Goring of Rosendale is quarry foreman.

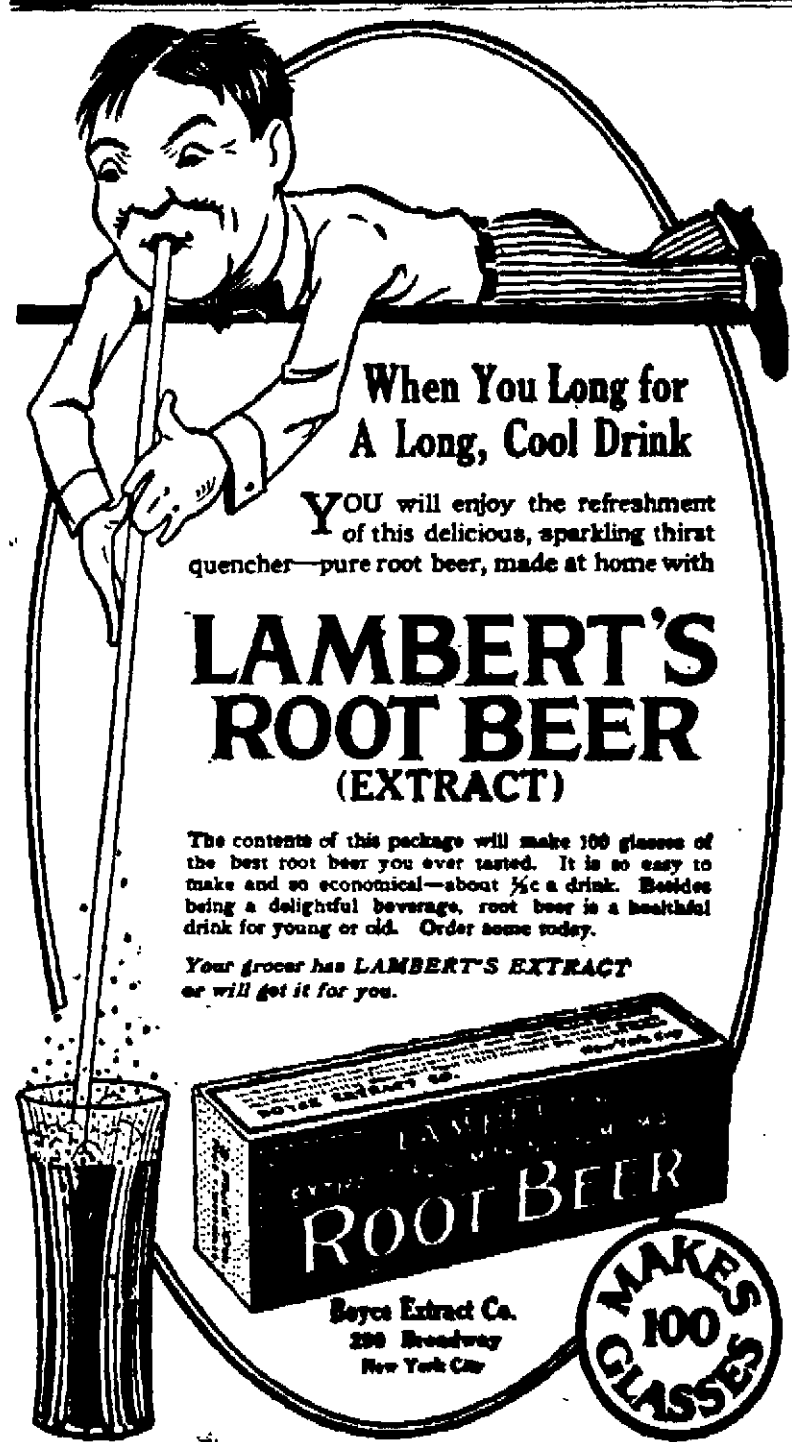

The laborers have two camps, one on the Cairns farm and the other on the John Sharpe farm. There are about seventy men at present on the job. The camp on the Cairns farm is occupied almost entirely by Spanish laborers.

To those who for years have been compelled in early spring to make this tedious trip through mud that in wet periods was nearly hub deep, a trip over the newly completed Hobart-South Kortright highway will prove a delight. Without question, it is one of the finest roads of its type in Delaware county. The entire road contract, which was commenced last August, will be completed this fall and then vicinity motorists will be able to enjoy one of the county's finest tours—to Delhi, Andes, and thence over the new concrete road to Margaretville, and back up the valley to Roxbury and Grand Gorge.

Rainy Day Treasure.
 Rainy days may be brightened for the child if he has a scrapbook which he uses on rainy days only. This may be made of cambric, pages about 9 by 12 inches in size, stitched together. Magazines and picture postcards may be saved for these days, and the child may cut out and paste for many long periods, with great pleasure.

SUNBURN
 If your skin is so tender that you expect sunburn, rub it well with Vicks before exposure. After sunburn, apply Vicks gently—do not rub in. It soothes burn and often averts blisters. For any outdoor vacation, Vicks is "standard equipment." It cures attacks of hay fever, asthma, catarrh and summer colds. Fine for sore feet, too.

Official Comment on His State-graph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 13.—One fact out above all else here today in discussion revolving about Stanley Baldwin's statement of the British attitude toward the French occupation of the Ruhr.
That the views of the United States and of Great Britain are practically identical.

cause this government has no connection with the reparation problem, no comment was made at the state department concerning the reaction of the administration to Baldwin's speech, but toward Baldwin's speech, but premier's outline of policy is to be pleasing to Secretary of Hughes because it largely embraces the principles laid down at New Haven Conn., on December 23, 1922.

In his speech, Secretary Hughes approved of the plans of Premier to speed up reparations payments by force of arms, although he held it to be necessary that Germany should pay to the limit of her ability. Premier Baldwin's announcement of British policy endorsement of these principles it was pointed out in official diplomatic circles here today, thus increasing virtual harmony between Great Britain and the United States in their efforts to solve the reparation problem.

The principal objective of both governments is the re-establishment of economic stability throughout the world, and both have made it plain that the reparations question is the root of all the trouble. Until that problem is solved to the satisfaction of all concerned they see no hope for improvement elsewhere.
At the present time however, there is nothing for the United States to do but keep in touch with political developments in the European capitals and through diplomatic advice to the state department and he has discussed the reparations problem with Colonel George Harvey, the American ambassador to Great Britain, who is reporting in the United States.
A suggestion for the establishment of an international commission of economic experts to decide how much Germany can pay has already received the O. K. of the German government and there are now indications that it is to be approved by Great Britain.

ROGERS STREET
BEING REPAIRED

The board of public works today started a force of men at work making necessary repairs to Rogers street. The work of repairing the hole between Broadway and Adams street is being taken up first.

The street department is completing the work of cleaning out the Abruy street sewer preparatory to getting the street in readiness for repairs. The board contemplates asphalting this street later in the season if able to get a steam shovel to do the excavating.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, July 13.—The supper and entertainment given by members of the Reformed Church in Spinneweber's new garage Wednesday evening was a wonderful success both financially and socially.
The Ladies Aid Society served over 200 suppers and could have served many more if the good things they had provided had not been all eaten.
These ladies have the reputation of serving fine suppers both in quality and quantity.

The Dorcas Society had an audience of 500 people to witness one of the best and up to date entertainments ever held in Port Ewen.
Special mention should be given to the one who took part in the pleasing program that was appreciated and enjoyed by a large crowd that filled the spacious room of the new garage, which was beautifully decorated with evergreen trees and colored Japanese lanterns. Dorothy Turner roses with the electric lights turned on made a very brilliant scene. Music was furnished by the Reformed Church orchestra. The Novelty Orchestra, composed of seven young ladies, with Miss Marjory Christian as the leader was the hit of the occasion, playing and singing the popular songs with enthusiasm and pep.

Mrs. Ada Hogan of Virginia is man on Salem street.

Mrs. William Mallia, who has been

To Keep Ahead.

Dudley Field Malone, the New York lawyer and wit, said at a dinner party:
"The jewelry shops of the Rue de la Paix in Paris are all displaying pipes for women—marvelous affairs —gold and meerschaum and amber and gems—and you see the prettiest women smoking these pipes at Pal-lard's and the Ritz and under the trees in Ardenneville."

"At the club the other afternoon a friend of mine took a big plug of tobacco out of his pocket, bit off an inch or two, and then held out the plug to me."

"Have a chew?" he said.

"No," said I; "I won't. And to tell the truth, Bill, I went on, 'I'm a good deal shocked to see a man of your culture with a quid in his cheek. How did you come to take up this uncouth habit?'"

"Well, you see," said Bill, "since my wife has gone in for pipe smoking I feel that I must do something to assert my masculinity."

Life of a Government Policeman.

There is romance and atmosphere of adventure associated with the life of a government hunter which is found in but a few of the recognized professions and walks of life nowadays. For the man who is adept with firearms, fearless, hardy, robust and perseverant, the business of prairie and mountain policeman is a made-to-order job.

For the most part, the national sharpshooters—modern minute-men who are ready at a minute's notice to take up the chase after dangerous grizzly bears, ferocious mountain lions or sly and cunning timber wolves—are recruited from the ranks of former cowboys, frontiersmen, Indian fighters, guides, trappers, hunters, prospectors, foresters, miners, former soldiers and other adventurers who enjoy the fascinating life of matching well sharpened wits with grave danger.—Montreal Family Herald.

Mechanical Page-Turner.

A device has recently been patented by which pages of music may be turned leaving the hands of the performer free at all times. It consists of an arrangement of levers operated by the foot, and may be fitted to any music stand. Its inventor says it will turn the music leaves in either direction with but a slight pressure with the foot on a pedal, all the control being done with the performer's foot, requiring no manipulation with the performer's hands; and that it will pick up a single leaf and transfer to desired position. The turning operation, he says, is performed in a small fraction of a second.

"Kissing Bugs."

About twenty-five years ago—during the summers of 1893 and 1896—the newspapers featured stories about kissing bugs. These were species of the family Reduviidae, with the common name of cone-nose. In the southern United States they are called "giant bedbugs." They resemble bedbugs in being fierce biters and blood-suckers, and have the added advantage of wings. To be said in their favor, however, is the fact that they prey upon bedbugs and roaches.

TAKE CERTIFICATE WHEN ON TOUR

The Motor Vehicle Bureau at Albany has received a complaint from Benjamin G. Eynon, Registrar of Motor Vehicles for the State of Pennsylvania, to the effect that his department is seriously handicapped in the detection of stolen and otherwise illegally driven cars through the failure of New York state motorists to carry with them the registration certificate furnished at the time the license plates were issued. Mr. Eynon has requested that a warning be issued advising the public that these certificates must be shown upon request of the proper officers when New York state owners are operating in Pennsylvania.

New York state owners operating cars in Pennsylvania and not possessing a chauffeur's or operator's license, should carry with them at all times the registration card corresponding with the license plates on the cars. Compliance with the request of the Pennsylvania authorities will eliminate the inconvenience and decided unpleasantness of detention pending identification as the legal owner or operator of the car under suspicion.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, July 12.—Friday, July 6, "Glen View" opened wide its doors for the meeting of the Auxiliary Club, this being the president's home. The coming together of members and mingling socially proved an auspicious prelude to the business session. It established at the outset a spirit of good fellowship which increased throughout. The entire afternoon meeting was full of vim. Members were given an opportunity for free expression upon various matters associated with club life and all discussions were of peculiar interest, both because of the helpful ideas advanced and the free flow of extemporaneous speech. These monthly gatherings are not purely for business. The interesting features of the afternoon were the reports of heads of various committees. Child welfare and Near East were discussed and plans made to raise money for an orphan whom it is impossible to mention all that took place but it was evident that the large delegation appreciated all efforts put forth by their leader. All enjoyed a warm salad, wafers, cream, salted peanuts, brick ice cream, homemade cake, and lemonade. After chatting some time, all left most fittingly expressing the pleasure of the afternoon to their president.

Alkali in Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily.

The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

IS ROYAL BLOOM

Iris Properly Described as the Flower of Chivalry.

Good Old Mother Nature Has Given Nothing More Lovely to the Un-deserving Earth.

There are some blossoms that spell enchantment, and the iris is one of them. It is a flower of mystery and wonder, of reticence, too, which is all as it should be. For is iris not the wife of the West Wind, and the mother of Eros? Whether the Spanish iris, or the beautiful broad leaved "flag," there is something about the flower which suggests secrecy.

I have walked among my irises in early morning and looked at the tightly-closed buds, wondering what colors they held, and by evening time some magic has been at work in the garden, and the blossom is open, with sister buds waiting their day below. So many forms, so many colors, this "witch lady" of the garden may take. I know about seventy kinds, and there are, doubtless, as many more, says a London Answers writer.

Ruskin describes the iris as the flower of chivalry, "with a sword for its leaf and a lily for its heart," and if ever you are lucky owner of an old-world garden, look well, for there is sure to be a border planted with the old-fashioned flag.

With leafy swords of green, cultrasses and plumes of gold and bronze, blue and purple, sentinels of the garden, reminders of old France, there they stand. For this is the flower of Louis VII, according to at least one authority.

Louis VII of France, whose name was then written Loys, called the flower "Fleur de Loys," then it became Fleur de Louis, and finally Fleur de Lis. Old Tusser, in his list of blossoms, spells it Flower de Luce; so does Gerard, who advises its use as a domestic remedy. He says the root, "stamped pulverwise, doth take away the blackness and blackness of any stroke," i. e., a bruise. The powdered root was also used as a complexion beautifier.

The white iris, the iris of the Florentine orchid-root, is one of the loveliest blossoms in the iris family. It was a sacred flower of the Greeks. The French call it "la flamme blanche," a beautiful name indeed, and if you walk between the iris borders in May or June, with the moon shining above you, you will understand its significance. It is "the white torch of the garden," in very truth.

How Mistral loved the iris—the yellow iris most of all. But there is a subtle joy about the yellow iris which makes us thrill and understand the passion of the great Provencal. It should grow beside water, of course, and should never be crowded. Those shining breaks of golden-yellow among the tall sword-leaves are too royal for prodigality.

Once, last year, I saw a heron stand among my yellow irises, watching the water solemnly, and so unusual was the sight I thought it was a dream. Though I watched early and late, I never saw him again. Perhaps this year when the yellow iris buds and blossoms he will pay me another visit.

There is something occult about the iris, something mysterious. Examine the markings on its petals and you will understand. Even old-long-ago Spenser loved it, although he could not have known some of the lovely blossoms of today, for he says no flower "shall match with the fayre Fleur de Luce."

There is a delightful story told about one of the irises that have come to us from Japan. Once upon a time there was a mighty famine in that land, and all things that would not be used for food were forbidden to be grown, and no man might plant flowers for beauty only. But the Japanese ladies loved the roots of the iris with the jagged crest to powder their pretty faces. The mighty ones of the land might banish the iris from the garden, but the Japanese ladies carried them to the roof, and there they lived and flourished.

This iris, by the way, of a beautiful violet color came to England in 1872.

Air Mail Succeeds.

Last year twenty planes carried half a million letters every day between New York and San Francisco. They did not fly by night on Sundays or holidays. During the night the mails were relayed on by fast trains. Forty pilots made 7,999 flights between the 16 division points into which the route is divided. Nearly 3,000 flights were in stormy weather or fog. Of these only 300 resulted in delayed mails. Crossing the Rockies they had to climb to 12,000 feet to hurdle the continuous gales and snowstorms sweeping the mountain passes. They seldom had to abandon a flight except for mechanical trouble. The time for a letter to cross the continent was cut from 100 to 80 hours.

Device That Saves Time.

In order to keep the power punch presses running steadily, a new stock-feeding reel is provided with two spools, designed so that the empty spool may be released while the other is reeling out the stock. The spool arms, which are adjustable to different widths of stock and different core diameters, bend toward the center for loading and are pushed outward until a knuckle joint holds them in position for the stock. An adjustable brake on each side of the reel provides tension suitable to the stock being fed.

Feeding of Baby Birds.

According to H. W. McCrae, a young farmer-naturalist of Lake Johnson, Saskatchewan, Canada, birds in the nesting season feed their young 270 times daily, involving approximately 600 insects.

ROBBERY HERO PROVES THIEF

Boy Who Shot at Bandits Now Admits Stealing Large Sum From Bank.

MONEY IS RECOVERED

Cleveland.—William Petre, boy hero of the sensational $53,000 Bedford bank robbery in October, 1920, has admitted taking $41,727 from the Cleveland Trust company. After a three-day grilling by bank officials and police, young Petre admitted he pocketed the cash just before leaving one of the company's branch banks.

Will Not Prosecute.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the trust company and a party of bank officials, at the direction of Petre, dug the money from under a garage where Petre told them he had buried it in tin cans. At the request of Colonel Ayres, Petre was not arrested. The money taken by Petre, bank officials said, was in bills of large denomination and small change.

Petre, a few years ago, was hailed all over the country as the "boy bank robbery hero." He was then nineteen years old and employed in a branch of the Cleveland Trust company. The afternoon of October 21, 1920, six bandits entered the bank and drove the clerks into a back room.

Petre Opened Fire.

Petre was first to get his hands on a gun, stepped out from behind a door and opened fire. He wounded one of the bandits and was himself wounded. His firing gave the alarm, and in the battle in the streets which followed one bandit was killed, one wounded, and five citizens were wounded.

In recognition of his bravery the trust company promoted Petre and also gave him a reward of $2,500.

GANDER ROUTS LAW OFFICER

Steals Patch From Sheriff's Trousers as He Flees From the Man He Sought.

Columbus, O.—A blinding, rushing gander attacked Norman Gilbert, deputy sheriff, when the official went to the home of John Talbert, in Summit county, Ohio, to serve legal papers.

"Get him!" rang out a voice when Talbert knocked on the kitchen door of the home. Then he felt a blow on the back. Turning, he saw a gander, "the biggest one in the world," he said.

The bird chased the officer half a mile to his motorcar, snatched a piece from his trousers en route, and then hissed in defiance as Gilbert drove away with the papers unserved.

Weds Adopted Daughter.

Philadelphia.—Twenty-four hours after he divorced his wife of twenty-two years, Charles M. Wessels married his adopted daughter, Marie, thirty-two years old. Marie was adopted 18 years ago by the Wessels.

Home Burns as Family Attends Movie.

Goshen, Ind.—Charles Judy and his family were attending a moving picture show when their $12,000 farm home burned to the ground, at Benton Village. Passing motorists discovered the flames and saved most of the furniture.

Sues Maid for Vamping Hired Man.

Oelwein, Ia.—Fred Jacobs is suing for $80 from a maid formerly employed by him, alleging that she vamped the hired man and took up much of his time. The former maid is suing Jacobs for $304, alleged pay due her.

Beer Replaces Gold Bricks.

Holland, Mich.—Nearly 350 men paid $40 a barrel to get some real oldtime beer. As a result they got stung. The salesman sent them near beer instead of the real stuff promised.

Girl Drinks Acid, Iodine and Alcohol.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Worrying over ill health, Miss Ruth Smith, twenty years old, drank a mixture of acid, iodine and alcohol. She died within a few hours.

Invest Some Money in Braided Thread

A vast market is waiting for the manufacturer who can produce the finer sizes of braided sewing thread.

Heretofore, due to the design of existing types of braiding machinery, only the coarser sizes thread could be manufactured. The Hale machine, exclusively controlled by the Braided Thread Corporation, eliminates all mechanical difficulties in the production of finer sizes of braided sewing thread. Actual production tests have proved it eminently successful.

This achievement has placed the Braided Thread Corporation in a position to command the market in the finer sizes of braided sewing thread.

The demand for Braided Thread in the shoe industry alone is more than double the supply.

Eight years of continuous manufacture have proved that the Braided Sewing Thread business is highly profitable.

The Braided Thread Corporation controls world rights to the "Halo Braider."

Call or write at once for full details of the Preferred and Common Stock of the BRAIDED THREAD CORPORATION.

Rushin on Cheapsness.
"All works of quality must bear a price in proportion to the time, skill, expense and risk attending their manufacture. Those things called 'cheap' are often when justly estimated, the cheapest; they are attended with much less profit to the artist than those things which everybody calls cheap."

AGRIGRAPHS AND HOME SPUN YARN

Uncle Ab says: The two-flat man does too-hard jobs.

Level cultivation with a dust mulch holds moisture in the garden soil.

The good farmer has a keen desire to make his soil more fertile each year.

Time is an ever present help around the farm as an aid to sanitation and to help the soil also.

Dust cabbages, with paris green and lime to get the cabbage worm; there is no danger of poisoning people who eat the cabbage because it grows from the inside out.

Some dooryards have so many trees that they keep out the breeze. If you don't want to sacrifice any of them, try trimming them high so that you will still have the shade but will let the breezes through.

Proper cooling of milk is one of the secrets of successful dairying. Ask for a copy of F-102, the state college bulletin on the subject. A postal request addressed to the college at Ithaca will bring it.

Old houses mended, cost little less than new before they're ended.
Colley Cibber.

Aunt Ada's Axioms: Until you are in a position to change the weather at will, there's no use worrying about it.

Pit cherries with a new wire hair-pin; press it into the fruit at the stem and down beneath the pit, which can then be lifted out in the loop without mashing the cherry.

It's the woman who has to keep up the agitation for a home sewage system. Bulletin B-43 may help in her campaign. It's hers for the asking if she writes the state college at Ithaca.

If chocolate candy melts on Mary's dress, the stains may be taken out by soaking in cold, strong borax water for half an hour. Then pour boiling water through and wash in the usual manner. If the dress is wool, usually the cold water and borax is sufficient.

How have you worked out your home budget? A convenient plan is to decide the amount that can be logically saved and then divide the remainder into five equal parts for food, shelter, clothing, operating, and development. Adjustments are then made among these fifths for the individual or family, except the fifth for clothing, which should not be exceeded.

China Uses Ancient Methods.

The only modern-type paper mill known to have been tried in China failed on account of location, small local market and impatience for dividends. Four special papers made by old methods are: Bark paper, from the paper mulberry; so-called rice paper, sliced from a pith; coarse paper, from rice straw or reeds, and bamboo paper from young bamboo trees.

ANTI-KLAN BILL IS "TOOTHLESS"

Attorney General To Issue Statement—Klan by Incorporating Evades Provision to File List of Members and Oath.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
 Albany, July 13.—There is a general feeling at the capitol that the Walker law, enacted by the last legislature to unmask the Ku Klux Klan, will never accomplish its purpose.

Attorney General Carl Sherman next week, it is expected, will issue a statement setting forth his views of the new law.

Unofficially it is said the Attorney General is convinced the law is "toothless," in other words it is not strict enough to bring the Klan under its provisions.

When the bill, which later became the Walker law, was being framed last winter, it was suggested that the words "Ku Klux Klan" be incorporated in it so there could be no misunderstanding as to what organization it was aimed at. This was not done because the men who name the bills said it could not be done; that under the present law an organization like the Klan could not be mentioned in a bill of its nature.

However, it was thought that by providing in the new law that all organizations and unincorporated associations of more than 20 members "not mentioned in the Benevolent Orders law" should file a list of members, oath, constitutions and by laws with the secretary of state each year, the Klan would have to come under its provisions. It was pointed out that the Klan was not mentioned in the benevolent orders law.

Shortly after the bill became law the "Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," and the "Kamela," the female organization, were incorporated at the secretary of state's office. It is believed at the capitol that the Klan by incorporating, felt sure they could evade the Walker law and not file the oath and list of members.

The state headquarters of both the Klan and the Kamela were given in the incorporation papers as Buffalo.

If the Walker law is found to contain flaws it is believed an attempt will be made at the next session of the legislature to amend it so the Klan cannot escape through a loophole.

LONG LIFE

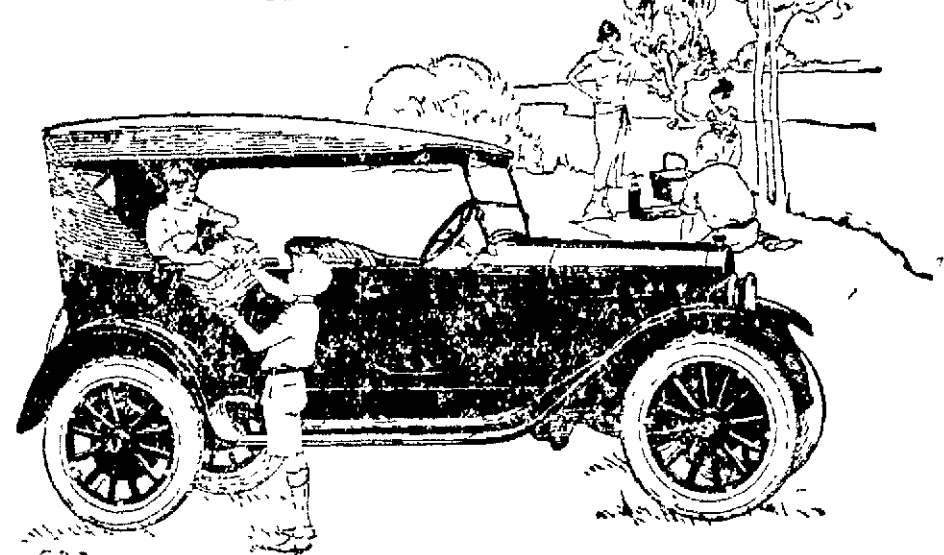

In buying a motor car, consider what the cost will be when divided over a period of years.

What is the car's reputation for satisfactory service after the first year? After the second? And after the third—and fourth?

These considerations, in the final analysis, are the true basis of economy in motoring.

And it is this attribute of long life to which Dodge Brothers Motor Car owes its chief claim upon the unalterable loyalty of its owners.

Mrs. Sabelle Nitti Crudelle, the first woman ever sentenced to die on the gallows in Chicago, is shown here with her second husband, Peter Crudelle, under a similar sentence. RICKARD TO OFFER DEMPSEY MATCH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 13. —Tex Rickard will offer Jack Dempsey a match with Luis Firpo, the battle to be staged either at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, or under agreement with the fight clubs holding concessions to the Polo Grounds or the Yankee stadium in New York. Rickard announced today.

Failing to get Dempsey into the ring with Firpo on Labor Day, Rickard said he would make every effort to have the Argentine mauler meet Harry Wills, negro heavyweight.
Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, believes Wills, not Firpo, the next logical opponent for Dempsey.

JONES LEADS IN GOLF TITLE PLAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Inwood, Country Club, Far Rockaway, N. Y., July 13.—Bobby Jones of Atlanta took the lead today in the first round of the open golf championship when he did 38-53-71.
Walter Hagen, playing with Jones took 77.

Cards.
Jones—In 333, 143, 143, 33, 71.
Hagen—In 333, 333, 441, 38, 77.
Joe Kirkwood and MacDonald Smith, both hot favorites, did not start any too well. Smith took a six at the fifth, where his drive was in the rough and he required three putts after taking the same number to get on.

At the seventh Smith's ball was stopped abruptly as it was dashing over the green, but it kicked off a spectator and behind a tree so that he could not pitch at the hole. He holed good putt for a three Kirkwood, who had driven on the green taking three putts for a four.

Cards.
Smith—Out, 445, 563, 314, 38.
Kirkwood—Out, 455, 553, 444, 39.
Gene Sarazen, paired with Chick Evans, started the defense of his title by playing the first six holes in par figures. Then he met trouble. He hooked his tee shot out of bounds at the seventh, was short of the green with his next drive, pitched on and missed a putt of six feet, taking a six on his par three hole. There is a stroke penalty this year for a ball struck out of bounds.

At three at the par four eighth aided him and he played the ninth in a par four.

Evans took 12 to the turn, finishing with a six and a five.
Cards.
Sarazen—Out, 445, 553, 634, 39.
Evans—Out, 451, 554, 465, 42.
A six on the thirteenth was Outmet's worst hole in the second nine. His in card.
413, 543, 515, 38, 82.

English Royal House.
Plantagenets was the name of the royal house that occupied the throne of England from Henry II (1154-1189) to Richard III (1483-1485) inclusive—a period of 331 years. This word is said to be derived from the planta genista (the Spanish broom plant), a sprig of which was adopted as a device by the earl of Arjou, great-grandfather of Henry II, during a pilgrimage to the Holy land, and was commonly worn by him in his helmet. According to the story, the earl chose this emblem for sentimental reasons, having offered himself to be scourged with the stems of the broom plant in atonement for a murder he had committed.

Degrees of Ignorance.
Dorothy had been reading fairy tales. At bedtime mother went downstairs to take care of the furnace for the night. On account of being affected by her reading the fairy tales, she followed her mother to the basement. This was unusual. Her mother reminded her about it, whereupon Dorothy said she was afraid to stay alone. Her mother told her of her cowardice, stating that her only six-week-old brother Donald was not even afraid to stay alone upstairs. Whereupon she answered her mother, "Oh, he doesn't know enough to be afraid."

When a Raincoat Leaks.
After a while raincoats have a way of letting the dampness through in certain places, but it is quite easy to set the matter right in the following manner: Secure a small lump of beeswax and spread the raincoat on a flat surface, wrong side upward. Now rub the material with the wax until the surface appears to have taken on a gray tint. When the area has been treated in this manner, hold a sheet of brown paper over the spot, and then press with a hot iron. This melts the beeswax and makes it pass into every fiber of the cloth. The raincoat will then be weatherproof.

Some Birds Dig Esters.
Some birds are heavy eaters. The robin, for instance, eats two and a half times its own weight in 24 hours. Pheasants are greedy eaters. Wood pigeons fill their crop; until they are almost ready to burst. Owls have big appetites, and during the night the baby owl expects a mouse about every quarter of an hour. The baby cuckoo is greedy as well as lazy. It expects its parents to go out and forage for it long after it is able to hunt its own food.

Partly True.
W. A. C. writes: "The schoolboy definition recently quoted in your column, viz., 'An optimist attends to your eyes and a pessimist to your feet,' was, perhaps, not so wide of the mark in one respect. The optimist—when he does not confine himself to seeing the bright side of other folks' troubles—does cure a good deal of short-sightedness. But the pessimist catches, not cures, weary dragging feet that wander in the mire."—Boston Transcript.

HER LOVE AFFAIR

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
"THAT," said Sarah Ellen grimly as she tied with blue ribbon a white tissue-papered package, "is the fifth shower gift I've made so far this year, and fate only knows how many more I'll be called upon for. Not that I mind, only—" she sighed and rose abruptly. Sarah Ellen was nearly thirty and had never had a shower in her life.

Busying herself with supper preparations, Sarah Ellen tantalized herself with imagining just what it would seem like to be the center of attention once in a lifetime—to be something vital that would be missed if suddenly removed. In a very small way she had experienced that sensation the week before Jethro Clark sailed for Rio.

He had called upon her twice, had taken her to the Durham fair, had asked for her picture. But in the two years which had elapsed she had never heard from him.

Tonight, thinking of her contributions to others in the past, she wondered what her neighbors would think could they see the chest in her attic filled to the brim with the handwork of years, all of her own manufacture. Her few dishes washed and put away, she got out her favorite needlework magazine and idly thumbed the pages. Suddenly she paused. An advertisement with a South American address had caught her eye. Reading it eagerly she learned that a versatile traveler was commercializing his experiences by writing chatty letters to stay-at-homes for a modest monthly stipend. At present the enterprising globe trotter was making his headquarters in Rio.

The following morning Sarah Ellen dispatched a note and a check. Then, in a fever of anticipation, she waited. The plan appealed to her as something next best to letters from Jethro himself.

Came a day when Postmaster Tibbals handed out the coveted reply. Sarah Ellen's hand fairly trembled—a fact he was not slow to observe even as he had made mental note of the postmark.
"Don't mean to say old Jethro's on the map again?" he wanted to know genially.

"I haven't read it yet!" faltered Sarah Ellen.

But at that moment was born the first deception in a hitherto impeccable life. If people wanted to assume she was hearing from Jethro—let them! And that is precisely what she did think. The arrival of weekly letters stamped South America was too unusual not to arouse comment. Sarah Ellen's conversation also became more and more sprinkled with allusions to foreign parts and strange exotic phrases crept into her customary precise English. She even changed her hair to conform with an alluring coiffure on an Argentine belle portrayed in a postal which had accompanied one letter.

Yet, odder enough, the more the village believed Jethro alive, the more Sarah Ellen believed him dead. Yet she made no effort to disabuse public opinion. On the contrary, she furthered the supposition that she and Jethro were in correspondence by having her chest brought down from the attic to the sitting room and displaying its contents frequently.

"What a supply you have, Sarah Ellen!" exclaimed Harriet Evans, a recent bride and a recipient of many little gifts at Sarah Ellen's hands.
"Yes," said Sarah Ellen proudly. Then, "but I made every one," she added a bit wistfully.

Harriet regarded her thoughtfully. "Yes, that's so," she said.

That night Harriet stood long at the telephone, but the gist of each conversation was so similar that the repetition of one will disclose the others.

"Yes, my dear, it's pathetic. Think how much she's done for all of us. Of course, we don't know their plans, but how about next Wednesday? A surprise, of course. And invite every person for whom she ever made a single blessed thing!"

Thus occurred Sarah Ellen's one and only shower. But its real surprise came at the end—a ring at the door bell, the departure of Harriet and her immediate return with amazement written on every feature. Quickly she ushered Sarah Ellen into the hall and up to an overcoated figure—then turned and ignobly fled.

"Sarah Ellen!" exclaimed a deep voice. "Tried to find you at home, and heard you were at some sort of a shindig at Harriet's, so came on over."
He took her gently by the arm and led her under the light. "My word!" he said. "You're even sweeter than I used to think of you in Siberia. Yes, I've been there almost ever since I left here. And I used to get wishing I'd asked you to marry me before I went. Tell me—are you married? No? Or promised? Good! But you're wrong. You're going to be married to-morrow. Let's tell the crowd!"

But Sarah Ellen is still explaining why, when Jethro Clark was in Siberia, she was getting letters from South America.

Is This True?
"It is the man with few friends who is successful in business."
"How?"

"As soon as a man begins to acquire friends he has to spend so much time in attending to their business."

Strange Experience.
Riding atop the bus a lamb of a tree whipped off my glasses, cord and all. Several weeks later while walking through the park with a companion my glasses, in perfect condition, fell into my parrot which I had lowered to avoid the boughs.—Chicago Journal.

SEEGER HELD FOR GRAND JURY

About 12:30 o'clock this morning Officer Peter J. Camp found Arthur Seeger of 2362 Webster avenue, New York city, who is stopping at No. 62 Boulevard, on the sidewalk at No. 149 Wall street in his Ford car, which was somewhat damaged.

According to Officer Camp Seeger was drunk. Seeger was taken to the county jail where he spent the balance of the night. His Ford car was placed in Doe Smith's garage. This morning in police court before Judge Robert C. Groves Seeger was represented by Attorney Frank W. Brooks. He waived examination and was held to await action of the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $500. District Attorney Traver appeared for The People.

Botanical Ascents.
The "botanical ascents" of Mount Katahdin by an American scientist suggested the possibilities of intellectual entertainment and agreeable acquaintance with nature that are offered by easily ascended mountains. No mountain that rises to a height of several thousand feet above the neighboring country fails to exhibit a most interesting variety in the succession of the kinds of plants and trees that the climber finds covering it as he ascends.

And not only the person having some knowledge of botany enjoys this rapid change of surroundings, but a similar pleasure is in store for the geologist, who sometimes finds that a mountain is like a prepared section of a part of the earth's crust; for the entomologist, who discovers different insects at the top from those that inhabit the lower slopes; for the ornithologist, who finds that birds have preferences as to elevation, and in fact for all students of nature.—Washington Star.

Sure of His Place.
She is a young widow in the early thirties, who recently married one of Indianapolis' popular bachelors. And to his annoyance she often talks of her past husbands. The other evening they were at a dinner when she turned to the guest of honor, "Are you married?"

The guest of honor made a negative reply. "And haven't you ever been married?" came the second question. Again the guest of honor shook her head. "Oh," the guest boasted slyly. "I've had three. He is my third."
"Yes, and you last, my dear," the husband snipped. "You might just as well know now as at any time that my name is going to be on your tombstone."—Indianapolis News.

An Alabama Morning.
Who is it that does not love to hear the song bird in the cool, shady clump and hear the shrill call of the chantrelle in a neighbor's yard, the clatter of the hoe on the hillside and a daisy's song in the distance, and the command of gee and haw on every hilltop, and the bleating of the calf down in the meadows? Oh, boy! as I pass along the sweet honeysuckle vines by the roadside or wander along the banks of the little creek with beauty and sweetness in the air and wild flowers blooming everywhere. Wouldn't you feel supremely happy? Just take an early morning walk about two miles out and see if you don't come in contact with some of the things mentioned above.—Louisville Headlight.

A Born Driver.
Mrs. Newkirk—Why didn't you bring baby back sooner? You've had him out a long time.
The Nursemaid—But he wanted a long ride. Every time I came to a corner he had his arm out of his cab signaling for a turn.

Flea Season.
Have you a little flea in your home? If you have not you're not "a the scratching these days. If you have, don't try to camouflage by calling it a "sand flea," because it is just plain dog and cat flea.
That's what H. F. Dietz, assistant state entomologist, says. Fleas are beginning to become numerous. It takes a flea only a little time to be a great-great-grandfather. Dietz said. The flea question has become so engaging that the entomology division of the state conservation department has prepared a bulletin on how to wage war on the flea. It will be ready for distribution soon, but one has to go some to get a jump ahead of a flea.—Indianapolis News.

HOUSE CLEANING LABOR CUT IN TWO BY MARVELOUS NEW DISCOVERY

Just a little of the wonderful new preparation, NACO, dropped in the scrub bucket, and your work is at once cut in half, while the results are twice as thorough and satisfactory. NACO cuts the grime and grease like a knife, enabling you to take it off with the least possible scrubbing and rubbing. It softens the water, NACO greatly increases the cleaning action of your soap.
Floors, tile, linoleum, oilcloth, walls and woodwork are made abnormally clean and fresh. Washbowls, bathtub and sink are cleaned and sweetened in a jiffy. Yet though marvellously efficient in its work and an excellent disinfectant and deodorant, the new liquid is as harmless in its action as pure soap.
As a weekly help in the tab NACO is without a peer. Never have you seen your table linens and white linen and cotton garments so luxuriously white, so spotlessly clean. Fruit stains, red stains, perspiration stains—even ink stains—disappear and disappear. Dirt and grime are quickly loosened and made easy for the soap to carry off.
You can get NACO at your grocer's—13 cents for a generous sized bottle.—Advertiser.

Arab Legend Concerning Cats.
According to an Arab legend, there was no such creature as a cat on this planet until Noah had marched all the animals into the ark. Then a plague of mice occurred, and Noah's family feared they would be eaten out of ark and home. But Noah prayed to Allah, and Allah caused the lion to sneeze a cat from its nostrils. And the mice immediately ceased troubling.

Country Club, Far Rock-harder than any of the qualifying

Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones were the first pair to draw a water. Both started well enough, though there were no fireworks.

As Jack Burke set off when he was with two threes and a four, Hagen dropped a shot at the first hole where his drive was in the center and his second trapped. After a better hitting his tee shots each better, splitting the fairways at the ball and getting good distance.

Jones dropped a stroke at the second hole where he missed a short putt.
Both players had birdies at the third, getting even with par.
Hagen was short with seconds, but chipped close to the pin. At the fourth hole both were just out on the green with two woods chipped within ten feet, but could not hole the putts.

The fifth and sixth holes were played in pairs by both, each having a double putt for two at the hole which they failed to hole.
Hagen's perfect wooden shot on the green at the 223 yards hole and Hagen's chip left him a iron foot putt which he missed.
Hagen dropped two shots at the hole when he missed a mashie and followed later by missing
short putt.

$42.51 FOR EACH ONE IN THE U. S.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 13.—Money stocks in the United States have increased $2,284,000,000 in six years, the treasury announced. Money of all kinds now in the country amount to $6,603,000,000. When the nation entered the war in 1917, the aggregate was only $5,319,000,000.
The latest figure on monetary wealth reflected accurately remarkable expansion of industry in all fields.
Since 1914, the money stocks have gained about $5,000,000,000.

There now is in circulation, both in coin and currency $4,739,000,000.
If this sum were divided among all of the 111,000,000 people of the United States each one would have $42.51. That per capita wealth is 17 cents more than it was a month ago and is 2.66 more than a year ago.

FLOOD OF BUSINESS IN POST OFFICES KEEPS UP

Fifty Cities Show a Gain for May and No Sign of Slackening.

No let up is discernible in the enormous business that is flooding the American postal system. Fifty cities, selected by the Post Office department, reported a gain for the month of May this year of 11.29 per cent over May, 1922, making a gain of nearly 26 per cent in the May business since 1921.

May receipts at the 50 cities for 1923 aggregated $24,901,601.15, as compared with $22,375,004.60 for May, 1922, and $19,503,793.88 for 1921, the Post Office department announced.

Los Angeles, Cal., headed the 50 cities with the largest gain, amounting to 26.71 per cent. Other large gains and the rank of the cities in percentage were:

New Haven..... 22.83
Detroit..... 22.44
Indianapolis..... 21.31
Rochester, N. Y..... 20.13
Richmond..... 17.53
Buffalo..... 17.52
Nashville..... 17.55
Akron..... 17.16
Columbus, Ohio..... 16.72
Springfield, Mass..... 16.21
Jersey City..... 16.22

The only one of the 50 cities to report a decrease was Fort Worth, Tex., which for the last year has been outstanding in the amount of increases reported and ranking in first place nearly every month out of 12.

The largest increase in May in dollars and cents was reported by Chicago. It was $541,419.50. New York was second with $381,501.21; Los Angeles, Cal., third with $120,210.54; St.
Louis, fourth with $116,424.04, and Detroit, Mich., fifth with $110,155.63.

VIENNESE DOCTOR WILL TRY EYE GRAFTING IN U. S.

Retaining their racial characteristics with such tenacity when the world at times seemed arrayed against them, it is little wonder that the Armenians have been called "the Jews of the East" and that it has even been suggested seriously that this people has sprung from the "ten lost tribes of Israel." Persecution seems to have whetted the Armenian's intellect, and made of him a natural trader. Whether in Constantinople or Shanghai, London or Buenos Aires, the Armenian competes successfully with native son or with Greek or Jew.

American interest in the Armenians has always been heightened by the fact that they are Christians—that they make up an island of Christendom in the huge sea of Islam. Armenian Christians are different from those with whom either the Protestants or Roman Catholics of America are familiar. It is from the Armenian church, perhaps, that one may get the best reminder that Christianity, like all other world religions, came out of the East; for this essentially oriental people has preserved in its Eastern home many of the customs and practices of the primitive Christian church.

Not Like Western Christians.
Christianity was adopted by the Armenians early in the fourth century, and their bishops were present at the Council of Nicea in 325. After the Council of Chalcedon in 451, however, the Armenians broke away from the more orthodox church to the west and established an independence that has been maintained, with only the briefest breaks, until today. It has been said that when the pagan Armenian king Tiridates had been baptized and had made Christianity the official religion, he ordered the pagan priests to become priests of the new faith. This they refused to do until assured that the sacrifices of animals, which furnished meat for their families, would be continued.

For a while such sacrifices actually were carried out in conjunction with the spiritual sacrifice of the eucharist, the animal victims being slaughtered before a crucifix in the porch of the church. Later this union of the two vastly different forms of sacrifice was abandoned, but still animal sacrifices were made at other times.

Armenian Christians differ less from Christians of the Greek church than from Western Christians, both Catholic and Protestant. Politics and a deep desire for independence, rather than tenacious adherence to tenets of faith, have been the chief causes, probably, of their failure to merge with the Greek or Russian church. The principal points of faith which set the Armenians apart from Western Christians are their belief in the single nature of Christ, their merging of the Christmas and baptismal feasts in January and their belief that Christ became divine only upon his baptism in the Jordan.

After the capture of Constantinople the Turks amide separate millers of the Armenian Christians, Greek Christians and Jews, placing in the hands of a patriarch, selected by the sultan and resident in Constantinople, both the spiritual and political affairs of their people. The Armenian patriarch had representatives in every bishopric.
Thus there was built up a system of mixed politics and religion.

Subject to Other Nations.
When the Armenians were first heard of about 1,000 years before Christ they were a distinct people, but from that time onward they were conquered repeatedly by their stronger neighbors: the Babylonians, the Medes and Persians, the Seleucids, the Romans. From shortly after the beginning of the Christian era until 632, when the country fell to the Byzantines, was Armenia's age of independence.

The apex of power and culture was reached during the latter part of that period. Then, as Viscount Bryce put it, with tragic suddenness "the development of the race was arrested just when their capacities were beginning to bear fruit."

Since that time the Armenians have really never had a chance. In 633 they were conquered by the Arabs and ruled by governors appointed by the caliphs. They became part of the empire of the Seljuk Turks until it split up in 1157. They were raided and harassed by the Asiatic nomads bound westward, finally by the devastating Timur-Lame. Their nobility had fled to Brsantium with the coming of the Arabs. After Timur many of the common people migrated to Cilicia. In the sixteenth century the Ottoman Turks and the Persians shared the dominance of old Armenia. Then in 1828 the Russians pushed south to take a hand in the division of the old Armenian territory. In 1878 Russia made her farthest southward advance, conquering the Turkish-Armenian San-jaks of Batum, Ardahan and Kara.
Since then the Armenians have lived with varying fortunes under the three jurisdictions, those of Turkey, Persia and Russia.

Much of the bloody suffering that has befallen the Armenians of Turkey during the past half century is ascribed indirectly to Russia. The Armenians under Turkish rule had been impoverished and oppressed for a long time. Russian assumption of their championship, and her demands for reforms incensed the Turks; and because the unprincipled Abdul Hamid II was being checked by the "council of Europe" all restraint was removed and wholesale massacres took place.
Probably a million or more Armenians lost their lives in these horrible slaughters. Of these 600,000 were done to death, it is estimated, during the World war.

Independence Not Restored.
For a brief period after the armistice the Armenians dreamed of a restored independence in their old home land. But the patriotic fervor which this dream aroused only served to draw down on their heads increased persecution from the Turks when the scheme fell through. Hundreds of thousands of refugees fled from Turkish Armenia to Russian Armenia and augmented there famine conditions which, in turn, took their toll of many thousands. It was under these conditions that American relief measures probably saved the lives of myriads.

What was recognized as Russian Armenia before the World war, the region which served as the refuge of Armenians, has been markedly lessened in extent by a post-war treaty between the Turkish nationalists and soviet Russia. By this agreement, known as the Treaty of Kars, Turkey has had restored to her most of the areas conquered by Imperial Russia in 1878. The Sanjak of Batum is practically internationalized, while the Sanjaks of Ar-dahan and Kars are ceded. Only the Erivan district, about 15,000 square miles in extent, is retained under Russian control. In this territory live 1-2,000,000 of the probably 2,500,000 Armenians. The district is organized as the Armenian soviet republic and,
with the adjoining republics of Georgia and Azerbaijan, makes up the Transcaucasian Socialist Federated Soviet republic, one of the "associated republics" of soviet Russia.

The vague region of Armenia, like the spirit of its people, centers around a noble mountain known to all the world: Ararat, a thousand feet higher than Mount Blanc. The tradition of Noah is a circumstantial story to the Armenians. They will show one the very spot where the ark grounded and they assert that this most important debarcation point is still guarded by genii with flaming swords. To the southeast of Ararat lies the town of Nakhichevan, meaning "dwelling," which was founded, tradition has it, by Noah after he planted the first vine on the slopes of Ararat. Besides its religious and traditional significance, Ararat is a gigantic political marker.
It is a common "corner" of Russia, Persia and Turkey.

COLONIALS WIN SLUGGING CONTEST

Book on Thursday by a 11-0
Ellis in box for Red Hook Kinnere for Colonials—Colonial Have Easy Time Talking Con-re slugging contest went to the baseball team at Red Hook afternoon by the score 5-0. Players on both teams had eyes on the ball but the Kings-players were superior to the ex-players that they got two more hits and more runs than did their oppon-

Ellis, or "Harold Lloyd," in the box for the Red Hook and he soon found out that he up against a team of far different than the Schenectady Jayses he had recently let down with hits. Ellis was touched up for more hits in every inning except the third.

an upstate pitcher, was in the box for the Colonials and he had a very good game considering the fact that he had pitched a full game on Monday and another one on Tuesday. Kinnere desires to pitch the game for the local team because he talks terms after which it is likely that he will be for the remainder of the season. The Colonials scored two runs in the first inning due to three safe hits by McCue, Deegan and Dah-

n. McCue came back and scored another run in their half of the first inning the score 2-1.

In the second inning the local team managed to get two hits but did not put any one over the rubber. However the Red Hook team scored two hits and an error scored two more runs in their half of the second which made the score 3-2 in favor of the village team.

In the third, Dah- was the man to get a hit on either team.
In the Colonials' half of the inning things did begin to happen.
This inning eleven batters faced and finally retired. Smedes started with a single to left field, McCue followed with a hit over Russell struck out.
McCue came through with a hit to left field and Coyle got on first on an error by the third baseman while Smedes and Deegan hit to right and scored. Dah- fled out on a fly to left fielder. Schwab got on and Coyle and Fogarty scored.
Dah- Anderson dropped Schwab's Smedes was walked but Russell retired the side and the score 3-3 in favor of the Colonials. Red Hook scored two runs in its half of the fourth which made the score 5-3.

Then everything went along in a peaceful manner until the seventh inning when the Colonials got over two more runs. Red Hook scored one more run in the eighth.
In the ninth inning the local team at their last tally over the rubber.
The Red Hook half of the ninth it looked for a minute as though they might tie the score. Three hits, one of them a triple by Lovethers, gave the village team three more runs.
However that was the best they could do and after considerable adding it was found that the score was 11-9 in favor of the clan of Schrick.

WILLARD PACKS FOR KANSAS TRIP

With Over $100,000 to Live as Country Gentleman—Was Case of Clumsy Young Man Beating Clumsy Old Man—Firpo's Stock Not Raised.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 13.—Dollar wheat wasn't bothering one Kansas farmer today.

Jess Willard "made his hay while the stars shone" last night. Today he packed his things for his trip home to the Sunflower state and the life of a "country gentleman."

Before 100,000 folk who packed Boyle's historic Thirty Acres last night, "Big Jess" traded punches with Louis Angel Firpo, the Argentine battler, and took exactly 43 solid blows in twenty-nine minutes and 59 seconds, giving his opponent 39 licks in return.

Then the fight was over, Willard, a tired old man sitting on the floor, $180,000 richer for the half hour's demonstration of the well known fact that "they can't come back."

The end came in the eighth round, following a succession of rights and lefts to the head which drove Willard to his knees at the ropes, while the referee counted ten.
"It was my hand—my left hand.
It hurt me terribly from an injury received three days ago," Willard said today, explaining his defeat.

"He gave me hell all right," Firpo said through an interpreter, "but I was the better fighter.
"No Firpo for Dempsey—why it
it would be a slaughter," Jack Kearns said today, announcing that the champion's next opponent probably would be Harry Wills, the negro dockhand.

"I am ready to fight any man in the world," Firpo said today.
It was not expected, however, that Jimmy DeForest, the cunning trainer-manager of the Argentine mauler, would allow his charge to go up against Dempsey, Gibbons or Wills before "Dead Pan Loui" had piled up a row of dollars by appearing against lesser lights in his own native land, where $100 ringside seats are the order, and the ex-soda jerk the idol of the nation.

Firpo's showing against the tired old man who sat down to shake his head, "no," while 100,000 voices cried "go on" Jess, did not raise his stock with the fans.

The battle lacked the spectacular.
A clumsy young man and a clumsy old man were the participants. The young man rushed and swung with a peculiar right hand which in its delivery had much the same motion as a baseball pitcher's "in-drop." The old man, cautious with years, failed to uncork the attack which could have ripped through the feeble guard of his opponent at any time. All Willard showed was a left jab.

Firpo's left hand was so much dead-weight at his side. And Willard appeared to forget he had a right.

There was much holding throughout. There was no particular winning blow of the fight. Three sets of maulings, delivered while the men were in close took the fight out of Willard.

In the fourth round, the seventh and the eighth Firpo got Willard in close to the ropes. Then he swung his right and landed in rapid succession on the head and jaw. Twice the punches made Willard groggy.
Disputes raged in every quarter today as to whether Willard as he knelt on the floor, was actually knocked out—too groggy to go on—or whether he just felt old, and tired, and at the end of the road over which he tried to come back.
Many believe it was not Willard's strength which had been sapped by the right hand swings of Firpo, but his ambition.

But whatever may be said of the fight it was a success financially.
The 100,000 customers who passed through Tex Rickard's turnstiles dropped $500,000 in to the bill.
Rickard himself estimated today as a corps of accountants labored on an official check.

Willard will take 32 per cent of every dollar taken in. Firpo gets 22 per cent—about $110,000.
Rickard will pocket an approximate $120,000.

COLONIALS BOOKED FOR BUSY WEEK

Schedule Will Require Services of More Pitchers—See May Be Signed, With Other Pitchers Trying Out.

Joe Labate will probably receive the pitching assignment this evening to oppose the N. V. A. team at the Fair Grounds. Labate comes to the Colonials with a good record. The team of actors is also recommended as a strong contingent and a good game is expected.

The Colonial management will have a busy week beginning Sunday when they play the Schatz team at the Fair Grounds; Tuesday at Tamersville; Wednesday the All Cubans at the Fair Grounds; Thursday at Poughkeepsie; Friday, Red Hook at the Fair Grounds; Saturday at Stamford and Tannersville; Sunday at the Fair Grounds.

These engagements will require the work of a big pitching staff which the Colonials may boast of in the very near future. With the last two pitchers, Kenners and LaVette, trying out for the team and with the possible signing of See a favorable outlook is ahead.

On Sunday, June 29, at the Fair Grounds a big attraction will be had when Cappel Johnson's All Stars of Philadelphia furnish the opposition.

RADIO BROUGHT NEWS OF FIGHT

Much interest was displayed by the sporting element in town Thursday night in the outcome of the Willard-Firpo bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres, New Jersey. There was a very large crowd at the side and in front of McBride's drug store where the doings at the ringside were received by radio and announced directly through a megaphone, many of the listeners being women. Announcement was given of the result of the different preliminaries, and the big fight was given by rounds.

There was also a crowd on St. James street near Broadway, where the doings at the ringside were received by radio by Orron M. Kennedy of the Central Garage, and a crowd heard the news of the different bouts received by radio at Carl Miller & Sons, electrical contractors, at 674 Broadway. Many owners of private radio sets listened in on the news at their homes.
